BLAME IS CAST ON OWNERS FOR DISASTER

Inspector Uhler Discusses Wreck of the Titanic.

OWNER SHY OF LIFEBOATS

Says Objection to Room Occupied Could Be Obviated if a Few Luxuries Were Dispensed With—Representative Alexander Declares Ship Owners Chase Almighty Dollar Too Hard—Hardwick Introduces Bill Requiring More Safety.

Washington, April 17. Speedy action by congress looking to the proper and adequate equipment with lifeboats and life preservers of ocean liners and coastwise vessels seems assured as a result of the Titanic disaster. Representative Hardwick of Georgia introduced a bill making it unlawful for any ship or other vessel engaged in ocean commerce to enter a clear at any port of the United States unless it is fully equipped with sufficient lifeboats, life preservers and other apparatus for the preservation of life to accommodate adequately persons to the extent of its passenger capacity and the number of its crew.

Inspector Uhler said: "If reports are true that the Titanic had a third lifeboat sufficient to carry only one-third of the passengers, congress will undoubtedly act and pass more stringent laws relating to sea traffic. The trouble evidently is that lifeboats take up too much room aboard ship; the steamship lines are chasing the almighty dollar."

Supervising Inspector General Uhler of the steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce and labor said:

"I have always contended that all ocean-going vessels should be equipped with sufficient boathouses to take care of the ship's company. The position which has been assumed by the owners of the big liners is that to do so would limit the number of passengers to be carried."

General Uhler stated that all that would be necessary would be to eliminate some of the luxuries which in recent years have been added to the big liners.

President Impatient to Learn Fate of Personal Aid But.

Harmon Names O'Hara For Supreme Court Seat.

Columbus, O., April 17. Governor Harmon announced the appointment of Joseph W. O'Hara of Cincinnati to succeed the late Judge James L. Price of Lima on the supreme court. Mr. O'Hara is a Democrat. His appointment makes the court stand bipartisan for the first time in a third of a century.

COIL TIGHTENS POLICE PILING UP THE EVIDENCE

Police Pile Up Evidence Against Marsh's Alleged Slayer.

Boston, April 17. Evidence which reached the Lynn police serves to doubly strengthen their case against William A. Doer, alias Willie A. Dow, for whom they hold a warrant charging him with the murder in the first degree of George E. Marsh, the wealthy soap manufacturer. They have evidence which accounts for the repeating rifle which was found in the automobile and through this evidence hope to show that he had planned to pick the aged manufacturer off from long range by means of this powerful weapon.

Mrs. Richard Leary, who lives directly in the rear of the Marsh home, and from the rear windows of whose house an unobstructed view of the Marsh home could be had, told the police that Doer had a rear room at her house from March 21 to March 28. From his window he could have shot Mr. Marsh had he come into range.

Latest List of Survivors Shows That a Few Men Were Taken Aboard Lifeboats During Terrible Confusion That Followed Collision With Iceberg—Only Shadowy Hint of Wreck Scenes Comes From Fog-Ruled Waters.

New York, April 17.—The Cunard liner Carpathia, bringing survivors from the sunken Titanic, got into wireless communication with the Sable Island station, according to the announcement made at the White Star line offices here. Details of the disaster, it is now hoped, will therefore be soon forthcoming.

New York, April 17. — That the only known survivors of the ill-fated White Star liner Titanic are aboard the Cunard liner Carpathia, which is slowly creeping toward this city, is the only new feature of the latest sea tragedy. The Virginian, which it was hoped arrived at the scene in time to pick up some of the survivors, was too late, and no other ships have reported finding any shipwrecked men or women.

In the icy, fog-smothered seas where the Titanic sank, exposure must soon have destroyed those who were left to life belts or wreckage when all the boats were gone and no help had come and the great steamship had foundered. The receding Olympic continued the work of relaying the Carpathia's dispatches and the successive bulletins posted at the White Star office kept many a despairing man or woman waiting all day and sent others away thanking God.

Gave Up Lives.
It is practically a certainty now that nearly all of the men of the Titanic's company went down with the ship when she plunged two miles toward the ocean floor or that they perished miserably while clinging to wreckage or life preservers in the icy waste that betrayed them. They gave up life within sight of the little rocking boats that held their women and children. It can not be doubted now that among these were Colonel John J. Astor, Isador Straus, Major Archibald Butt, George B. Widener, Karl H. Behr, Jacques Futelle, the writer, William T. Stead, Francis D. Millet and many, many more who were known on both sides of the Atlantic. The toll of the Titanic's dead will be felt the world over. The names of the survivors wireless here by the Olympic include a small number of men who were able to find a place with the

PRIMARY PLAN IS ADOPTED WITH A WHIRL

People to Vote on Delegate Tannehill's Proposal

IS FAR REACHING IN SCOPE

Will Give Ohio Real Presidential Primaries and Provide Direct Nomination of United States Senators. Heated Debate Precedes Defeat of Proposition to Abolish Capital Punishment—Word "White" Eliminated From Constitution.

Columbus, O., April 17. If the Tannehill proposal adopted by the Ohio constitutional convention is ratified at the polls, it means that Ohio will have presidential preference primaries. It provides for direct primary for state, district, county and municipal officers, for the nomination of candidates for United States senator and for the selection of delegates to national conventions.

Two proposals passed were those of Mr. Miller of Crawford, allowing women to hold office in state institutions where women and children are cared for, and to act as notaries public, and of Mr. Cunningham, striking the word "white" from the constitution's requirement as to voters. The latter was intended to remove some confusion attending the suffrage proposal approved some weeks ago and was passed as a result of protest from colored people.

Delegates Brattain and Tallman were the only two members who voted against the direct primary proposal of Mr. Tannehill of Morgan county, which was amended to include nomination of United States senators and election of delegates to national conventions by direct vote. It does not embrace township and small village officers, unless the people so desire. There were 99 votes in its favor.

Mr. Ulmer sought to have incorporated a clause to make nominations nonpartisan. He said an independent can't vote at a primary. Mr. Tannehill declared political conventions are "drunken, debauched and boss-controlled." He said delegates leave before nominations are made, in many cases, and that he himself had voted the delegations of three counties.

Columbus, O., April 17. — What looks like a serious blow to postal savings banks was given when the state tax commission instructed personal property assessors throughout Ohio that those accounts are taxable. Postal savings bonds, however, are not taxable.

The First "Market Day" at Washington Market, New York

AMONG the results of Mayor Shank's vigorous campaign against the Indianapolis middlemen may be reckoned the agitation in New York city for the establishment of more public markets. The Housewives' league, of which Mrs. Julian Heath is president, recently arranged a market day on which its members visited Washington market, in the lower part of Manhattan Island. They were received with great cordiality by the stallkeepers, who devoted a considerable part of the day to demonstrating the advantages of marketing in person instead of by telephone. Mayor Gaynor came and was buttonholed by the enthusiastic women visitors. Most of them carried capacious market baskets, which, however, they were generally too busy to fill, but they looked well in the many photographs which were made by the zealous "camera squad" of the New York newspapers. The figure on the right of the picture is Mrs. Heath, who was much pleased with the success of her experiment.

WATCH INSIDE OF A PEARL

Pearls on watches are common places, but a watch in a pearl is surely a novelty. One has just been made by a Paris watchmaker after 15 months of work by his best mechanics. The pearl weighed 45 grains and was a perfect flattened sphere. Its diameter was 14 1/2 millimeters or slightly more than half an inch. The watch is 1 1/2 millimeters, or 45-100ths of an inch, in diameter, and has a compensating balance of 5-12ths of an inch caliber. It may seem strange, but the maker says the most difficult part of the work was boring the hole in which the watch was to be inserted in the pearl. This watch mounted in a pearl cost $6,000.

Will Decide Today On Baker Bonds

A joint meeting of the finance committee of the Commercial club and committees representing the different banking institutions of the city will be held this afternoon in one of the local banks for the purpose of considering the proposed loan of $100,000 to assist in financing the Washington Traction company.

The state utilities commission recently authorized the Washington company to place loans to the amount of $300,000. An effort is being made to place one-third of this amount with local banks and the remainder with institutions in other cities. The proposition is being strongly agitated by the Commercial club and the finance committee reports that much headway has been made and success is practically assured. The matter probably will be decided today—Wednesday's Springfield Sun.

The plaintiff claims that on March 9th, 1912, she presented her claim to the defendant administrator, and it was refused, wherefore she prays that judgment be allowed her for the amount named.

Greeks & Greeks are attorneys for the plaintiff. An itemized account of the claim is attached to the petition.

Wake Up With a "Dark Brown Taste"?

Get Rid of It! Run for
OLIVE TABLETS

There isn't the slightest need to wake up any morning with a "brown mouth." Ugh! No need to describe it.

Dr. Edwards has made "brown mouth" a thing of the past in thousands of homes with his little Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver and bowels, never has "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a pimply face, constipation or any other form of bowel or liver disorder.

Take one just the moment you suspect you are constipated or that your liver is out of order.

Thousands take one at bedtime every night just to keep the bowels regular, the liver in order, the mouth clean and the breath pure and sweet.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent 17 years in practice and in laboratory experiments before he perfected Olive Tablets.

Why don't you try them instead of the severe kind of laxatives that gripe and only effect temporary relief?

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

WOMAN IS BLOOD THROWER

Sensation Caused by Act of Jilted Sweetheart of Man in Paris, France.

Paris.—A small crowd which gathered outside one of the local mairies in Paris was first terrified and then immensely amused by an exciting incident which took place just as a newly married couple were crossing the pavement to drive away to the wedding breakfast.

A woman standing near the door lifted her apron, gripped a jug, and hurled its contents at the bridegroom. Here was a case of vitriol throwing. It was thought, but to everyone's amazement it was seen that the bridegroom's face was covered with blood. He staggered and almost fell, while everyone wondered what was the new substance that caused such fearful injury. The woman who had thrown the liquid, however, solved the mystery before vengeful hands could be laid upon her. "Yes, I am his jilted lover," she said, "but it is only rabbit's blood. It is quite good enough for him."

WATCH INSIDE OF A PEARL

Pearls on watches are common places, but a watch in a pearl is surely a novelty. One has just been made by a Paris watchmaker after 15 months of work by his best mechanics. The pearl weighed 45 grains and was a perfect flattened sphere. Its diameter was 14 1/2 millimeters or slightly more than half an inch. The watch is 11 1/2 millimeters, or 45-100ths of an inch, in diameter, and has a compensating balance of 5.12ths of an inch caliber. It may seem strange, but the maker says the most difficult part of the work was boring the hole in which the watch was to be inserted in the pearl. This watch mounted in a pearl cost $6,000.

Will Decide Today On Baker Bonds

A joint meeting of the finance committee of the Commercial club and committees representing the different banking institutions of the city will be held this afternoon in one of the local banks for the purpose of considering the proposed loan of $100,000 to assist in financing the Washington Traction company.

The state utilities commission recently authorized the Washington company to place loans to the amount of $360,000. An effort is being made to place one-third of this amount with local banks and the remainder with institutions in other cities. The proposition is being strongly agitated by the Commercial club and the finance committee reports that much headway has been made and success is practically assured. The matter probably will be decided today—Wednesday's Springfield Sun.

Administrator Made Defendant

Abdella D. Schickendantz has brought suit in Common Pleas court against F. A. Chaffin as administrator of the will annexed of Mary J. Getz, deceased, in which she seeks judgment for $574.59 for care, attention, housework and nursing of the deceased Mary Getz, and provisions furnished her between Sept. 1, 1904 and June 17, 1909.

The plaintiff claims that on March 5th, 1912, she presented her claim to the defendant administrator, and it was refused, wherefore she prays that judgment be allowed her for the amount named.

Glick & Glick are attorneys for the plaintiff. An itemized account of the claim is attached to the petition.

Wake Up With a "Dark Brown Taste"?

Get Rid of It! Run for
OLIVE TABLETS

There isn't the slightest need to wake up any morning with a "brown mouth." Ugh! No need to describe it.

Dr. Edwards has made "brown mouth" a thing of the past in thousands of homes with his little Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver and bowels never has "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a pimply face, constipation or any other form of bowel or liver disorder.

Take one just the moment you suspect you are constipated or that your liver is out of order.

Thousands take one at bedtime every night just to keep the bowels regular, the liver in order, the mouth clean and the breath pure and sweet.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent 17 years in practice and in laboratory experiments before he perfected Olive Tablets.

Why don't you try them instead of the severe kind of laxatives that gripe and only effect temporary relief?

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

WOMAN IS BLOOD THROWER

Sensation Caused by Act of Jilted Sweetheart of Man in Paris, France.

Paris—A small crowd which gathered outside one of the local matines in Paris was first terrified and then immensely amused by an exciting incident which took place just as a newly-married couple were crossing the pavement to drive away to the wedding breakfast.

A woman standing near the door lifted her apron, gripped a jug and hurled its contents at the bridegroom. Here was a case of vitriol throwing, it was thought, but to everyone's amazement it was seen that the bridegroom's face was covered with blood. He staggered and almost fell, while everyone wondered what was the new substance that caused such fearful injury. The woman who had thrown the liquid, however, solved the mystery before veneful hands could be laid upon her. "Yes, I am his jilted lover," she said, "but it is only rabbit's blood. It is quite good enough for him."

The second social session of a series given by Royal Chapter, O. E. S. No. 29, was thoroughly enjoyed at the Masonic hall, and introduced entertainment entirely out of the ordinary in a lecture, illustrated with stereopticon views, by Hon. T. W. Marchant. The lecture gave to the guests the pleasure of a western trip, being the reproduction of a trip Mr. Marchant made from New Orleans to California, returning by way of Denver and Salt Lake City. It was intensely interesting, the speaker throwing on the canvas the attractive places and wonderful scenery of the West, enlarged from pictures he had taken enroute. Don't Be Nervous and Run-Down

NEW TONIC, TONA VITA, WILL POSITIVELY RESTORE YOUR OLD VITALITY.

Nervousness, depression of spirits, lack of energy, all run down, these are the chief symptoms of nervous debility, the modern affliction caused largely by the rush, hustle and worry of modern life.

If you are a sufferer from this all-too-common complaint, and cannot go to a high priced sanitarium to have rest and diet build you up, you should read carefully the following statement by C. N. Hunt, Esq., of 602 Sixth-st., Milwaukee, Wis., concerning the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" that has made such a great record during the past year. Mr. Hunt says: "For a number of years my wife has been a sufferer from a continuous run down, nervous condition and stomach trouble. I took her to a number of doctors, but none seemed to give her any relief. She grew constantly worse and her entire system became affected."

"She could hardly eat anything and would say the very thought of eating made her sick. She caught one bad cold after another and was always tired and languid. She had bad headaches and attacks of dizziness."

"I got some Tona Vita a few months ago. My wife began taking the tonic that night and we were pleasantly surprised to notice an improvement after the second day. She is now like a different woman. The nervousness and depression are all gone and she eats and sleeps better than she has for years. It seems wonderful to note such a change in her. I believe "Tona Vita" is worth its weight in gold."

If you are debilitated and run down, above all things try "Tona Vita." You will never regret it as it will build you up like magic. It is the finest preparation now on the market.

The second social session of a series given by Royal Chapter, O. E. S. No. 29, was thoroughly enjoyed at the Masonic hall, and introduced entertainment entirely out of the ordinary in a lecture, illustrated with stereopticon views, by Hon. T. W. Marchant. The lecture gave to the guests the pleasure of a western trip, being the reproduction of a trip Mr. Marchant made from New Orleans to California, returning by way of Denver and Salt Lake City. It was intensely interesting, the speaker throwing on the canvas the attractive places and wonderful scenery of the West, enlarged from pictures he had taken enroute. The chapter was deeply indebted to Mr. Marchant for his presentation of the lecture.

Tempting refreshments were served and informal dancing, for which Mr. James Whelpley furnished the music.

Burglars Rifle Postoffice Safe

Burglars entered the postoffice at Bainbridge Monday night, and succeeded in relieving a small safe of $25 in money and stamps, while a larger safe was not molested.

Entrance was gained from a rear window, and it is believed that Bainbridge talent is responsible, as the burglars were apparently familiar with the interior of the postoffice, and knew that the smaller safe was not locked. No clue has been found that might lead to the capture of the man or men who committed the burglary.

Don't Be Nervous and Run-Down

NEW TONIC, TONA VITA, WILL POSITIVELY RESTORE YOUR OLD VITALITY.

Nervousness, depression of spirits, lack of energy, all run down, these are the chief symptoms of nervous debility, the modern affliction caused largely by the rush, hustle and worry of modern life.

If you are a sufferer from this all-too-common complaint, and cannot go to a high priced sanitarium to have rest and diet build you up, you should read carefully the following statement by C. N. Hunt, Esq., of 602 Sixth-st., Milwaukee, Wis., concerning the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" that has made such a great record during the past year. Mr. Hunt says: "For a number of years my wife has been a sufferer from a continuous run down, nervous condition and stomach trouble. I took her to a number of doctors, but none seemed to give her any relief. She grew constantly worse and her entire system became affected. "She could hardly eat anything and would say the very thought of eating made her sick. She caught one bad cold after another and was always tired and languid. She had bad headaches and attacks of dizziness. "I got some Tona Vita a few months ago. My wife began taking the tonic that night and we were pleasantly surprised to notice an improvement after the second day. She is now like a different woman. The nervousness and depression are all gone and she eats and sleeps better than she has for years. It seems wonderful to note such a change in her. I believe "Tona Vita" is worth its weight in gold.

If you are debilitated and run down, above all things try "Tona Vita." You will never regret it as it will build you up like magic. It is the finest preparation now on the market.

THE DISASTER AT SEA.

The awful fate which overtook that greatest of all steamships, the Titanic, on her maiden voyage has appalled and stunned the whole world. The tears of rich and poor mourners blot out the line which separated them before this latest calamity made them but poor human beings in distress of close kin in the overwhelming sorrow of it all.

Prince and peasant, rich man and pauper were heroes alike and fifteen hundred brave men from steerage and cabin quarters stood grimly heroic on deck, while the life boats bore away the women and children.

They went nobly to the bottom of the sea with the great ship which was built and launched by man as one absolutely safe.

With the compartments of steel, each water tight, the Titanic was supposed to be beyond the dangers of the sea.

In a flash, with one touch of his icy finger Neptune made of man's hopes and man's achievements, nothing but a death trap to the fifteen hundred human beings who had confidently believed in man's efficiency.

The most astounding feature of the disaster is, that with all the gigantic work, the enormous expenditure of treasure to make of the big liner a palace and absolutely safe means of transportation, when the test came the great boat was found to be woefully insufficiently equipped with life boats, and not more than a fourth of the human beings could leave the ship.

One awful truth it teaches is that just when man has completed a work designed to defy the forces of nature, then nature steps in and with one stroke wipes away his puny creations.

It is a disaster which it was believed could not occur in this age, and in its happening we are made to realize by the execution of an awful penalty that after all we are in the hollow of His hand.

LEGISLATION SECOND.

While Congress is bravely hammering away at tariff bills and appropriations, there's a heap sight more interest being felt in politics than in legislation, whether the latter be constructive or destructive, progressive or reactionary. This week has seen a big stride in the rounding up of convention delegates, especially in Illinois where Clark surprised everybody. Practically everybody in the running has gained something, but then most of them have not gained so much as they had expected and of course there are a few wails rending the atmosphere. Cries of "fraud," "influence," "pernicious activity," "corruption," and the like are becoming familiar to newspaper readers. Meanwhile the standing of the candidates is changing so rapidly that it is difficult to keep track of it, and in fact scarcely any two of the political headquarters can agree on the exact distribution of the delegates.

On the surface it seems that Col. Roosevelt has been making big gains, and on the democratic side, Speaker Clark's friends have been very busy and highly successful. Wilson and Taft are not at all down hearted to judge from the tone of their literary managers, while Underwood, La Follette, Gaynor, Marshall, in fact all of them, seem to be advancing cheerfully to the big skirmishers at Chicago and Baltimore.

Value of the Newspaper
In the Home

Fathers Should Read and Discuss It Intelligently
With Their Children

By Mrs. CLARENCE E. MELENEY, Sociologist

I HOLD TO THE OLD VIEW OF THE FAMILY AND CONSIDER IT A PART OF THE FATHER'S DUTY TO KNOW THE NEWS THAT IS IN THE NEWSPAPER AND TO DISCUSS IT INTELLIGENTLY WITH THE CHILDREN.

The attitude the parents take toward the newspaper will determine very largely its effect on the children. They should come to think of it as a PURVEYOR OF THINGS THEY OUGHT TO KNOW.

I think the press ought really to be commended for the great amount of VALUABLE AND INTERESTING INFORMATION they bring us that is also interesting to the children.

I know of one little boy of ten, for instance, who is very much interested in aeroplanes, and he finds the papers very exciting for that reason. He reads and clips out the stories of the flights and all the details of the art of flying, and he is learning a great deal about this subject.

As for the girls, I find that they are very much interested in news of the day.

All reports on big events the papers have brought us, and these are the things you will read if you know how to read the paper. There is a great deal in knowing how to SKIP when you are reading a paper.

Certainly women ought to thank the press for the space they give to womankind, woman questions and home questions.

Poetry-Today

GIVING THE BOY A CHANCE.

He never did a single thing
For which the world could give him blame:
He never tried to grasp or cling
To what he had no right to claim.
He never crowded other men
Against the walls or struck them down;
He left no foes behind him when He hurried homeward from the town.

He never tossed upon his bed
Exclaiming dark and sinful schemes:
He never with an aching head
Awoke from a soul-disturbing dream:
He did not need a bodyguard
To shield and follow him about:
His peacefulness was never marred
By groundless fear or foolish doubt.

He did not madly rush through life,
Forgetful to be kind or glad;
He never fixed it so his wife
Could have more than her neighbor had;
He left no fortune that his son
Felt called upon to dissipate:
Therefore, the boys all right and one
Who has a fair chance to be great

WILL DOCK DIRECT

Port Regulations Waived In Case of the Carpathia.

New York, April 17.—After a day of anxiety, in which repeated efforts were made to get into wireless communication with the Cunard steamer Carpathia, with survivors of the Titanic, the officials of the White Star line said that no word had been received from the Carpathia since early in the day. The message gave the names of some survivors.

The officers of the Cunard line kept sending messages to Captain Eckstrom of the Carpathia, telling him to let the company know as soon as possible when the Carpathia might be expected at this port, and for any other news he had concerning the Titanic.

The federal officers and the officers of the Cunard line are working in harmony to favor the landing of the survivors of the shipwreck when they arrive. They will not stop at quarantine but will come right on to the Carpathia's pier, the weather permitting.

HOPE ABANDONED

Liner's Captain Sends Word All Survivors on Carpathia.

Cape Race, N. F., April 17.—A wireless message from Captain Haddock of the steamship Olympic, relayed by the Celtic, reads as follows:

"Please allow rumor that the Virginian has any of the Titanic's passengers. Neither has the Tunisian. I believe that the only survivors are on the Carpathia. The second, third, fourth and fifth officers and the second and third operators are the only officers reported saved."

Former Ohioans Safe.

Columbus, O., April 17.—William Monypeny, Jr., received a telegram from William Monypeny Newsome of Boston, saying that he had received a wireless from his mother, Mrs. R. L. Beckwith, stating that she and her husband and daughter, Helen Newsome, were safe on board the Carpathia, having been among those rescued from the wrecked Titanic. The Beckwiths are former residents of this city.

Serious Injuries

John Mantle, living just over the Fayette-Madison line near Danville, was seriously injured a day or two ago when three horses attached to a plow ran away and in their mad dash for liberty Mantle was thrown down and run over.

He was picked up by some neighbors who were working nearby, and carried to his home in a semi-conscious condition. Dr. E. B. Meade of Sedalia was summoned and dressed a number of ugly cuts and bruises on his head and body, and the patient soon revived and is on the road to recovery.

Floor Falls In

A mishap in all respects similar to that which occurred in this city Tuesday morning when a large section of the floor in the new high school building in London within a few hours of the same time, when a great section of the second floor gave way and 35 tons of green cement and other material fell to the floor beneath, crushing Sedalia was summoned and dressed a number of ugly cuts and bruises on his head and body, and the patient soon revived and is on the road to recovery.

The collapse was caused by the "boiling" timbers backing and allowing the great mass to fall to the floor beneath. Strange as it may seem, the floor beneath withstood the shock of the 35 tons of falling cement without being injured.

No one was injured in the collapse.

On Gang of Corn Thieves

Finds Midnight Marauders in His Corn Pens and Opens Fire But Gang Escapes--Calls Sheriff and Deputy, Who Assist in Search--Thieves Said to Live in This City.

Sheriff Nelson and Deputy Sheriff Nelson were called from their beds at a late hour Tuesday night to assist J. W. Morris of near the Childers home, in capturing a gang of corn thieves which have been making raids upon his adjoining corn pens, but the men succeeded in making their escape.

For many weeks, Mr. Morris, who lives on the F. O. Carpenter farm near the John school house on the Decatur road, has been missing small quantities of corn, and Tuesday night he had occasion to believe that the thieves were making another raid on his corn pens, which are about two yards from his residence.

Calling his son he secured the shotgun and slipped quietly out of the house and headed toward the corn pens. Before reaching the cribs he heard the noise of scurrying feet and saw three men hurrying down the road at break-neck speed. In the time he approached near enough to use the shot gun with telling effect, another man suddenly appeared, about 100 feet distant. He started to run and was ordered to halt, but refused to do so. In the darkness the man afforded a poor mark, but Mr. Morris took a shot at him anyway and believed some of the best shot took effect.

He started in pursuit of the men and had his son return and phone to the Sheriff to drive out to the scene, thinking he would meet the men when Mr. Morris believes live in this city.

R. J. Howell, Tracy, Ohio, in giving particulars of his wife's recent illness writes: "Her case was the worst I have ever seen, and it looked like consumption. Her lungs were sore and she coughed almost constantly, and sometimes fairly strangled. Her voice was hoarse and weak and she talked in a whisper. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gave her relief at once, and less than three bottles effected a complete cure." Blackmer & Tanquary.

city, and who probably had a rig of some kind.

The sheriff and deputy were soon on their way but failed to meet any one either afoot or in a rig. However they succeeded in finding four sacks of corn along the road side a quarter of a mile distant from the cribs. The corn had evidently been left until the rig arrived to haul it away.

The night was dark and rainy and the men had little trouble in eluding their pursuers. Further developments may take place in the matter, as it is claimed that a slight clue has been found which may lead to the identity of at least one of the men being revealed.

If unable to secure tickets, come anyway. Wednesday evening, I. O. O. F. hall, 8 o'clock.

Presbytery Closes

The spring meeting of Presbytery adjourned Monday afternoon in time for most of the delegates to take the evening train to their homes. An adjourned meeting will be held in Hamilton, May 10, for the purpose of ordaining Rev. Frank Campbell, of Lake, secretary, pastor of the churches of Hamilton and McAdams.

Dr. J. H. Howell, of the First Presbyterian church, Chillicothe, was elected commissioner to the General Assembly, which convenes next November at Louisville, Ky., and the delegates, Mr. McGowan, of South Salem. The alternates were Rev. J. S. Huggart, of Lexington and Mr. J. T. Tuttle, of this city.

Harmon Loses Suit

Columbus, April 17.—George S. Long, secretary to the governor, won out in his suit against Governor Harmon as receiver of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad in the Supreme court yesterday, getting a verdict of $1,200 for Willis Small, a mail clerk injured in an accident on the company's road at Swanders. The case came from Miami county.

The court in another decision held that Logan Kline, of Cleveland, must serve a life sentence in the penitentiary for shooting Mike Radice. The court refused to allow Kline to carry up his case, which means that he must serve out the sentence imposed upon him by the lower courts.

Gusher Opens New Oil Field

Oil excitement ran high at Roseville and Crooksville Sunday, when the Bondeson & Teters Co., of Pittsburgh drilled in a gusher on the Brown estate farm between the two towns. It was estimated Sunday night that the well would be good for 75 to 100 barrels a day and this was a conservative report.

The well will be shut Monday or Tuesday, and the company, which has leased 100 acres in that vicinity will start immediately on the work of sinking seven other wells. The drillers struck a heavy sand and went down to a depth of 3,400 feet, having worked on the well since the first of the year.

A rush for leases was made immediately after the well came in, but all of the land in that vicinity was already under option, and many were disappointed. The company is composed of Pittsburgh men, excepting three local parties, F. M. Ransbottom and Critchfield & Allender of Zanesville, who drilled the well.

This makes the second good well in the Roseville-Crooksville field, the Electric Co. having a well at Crooksville, which has been producing between 25 and 35 barrels a day for the past few months.—Lancaster Eagle.

Mrs. Ida Costell, 353 Sherman St., Akron, Ohio, says: "I have used Foley Kidney Pills in my household with most satisfactory results. My husband used them for backache and it was promptly dispelled. I was troubled with weak kidneys and after using Foley Kidney Pills I was entirely cured and feel it my duty to recommend them." Blackmer & Tanquary.

Mr. Housefly

It does not require Dr. Howard's statistics about the multiplying powers of the house fly to demonstrate the necessity of starting early in the campaign against this nuisance. Better results can be accomplished right now, and henceforth, through the spring, than by a spasmodic fight against the fly in the summer. For purpose of illustration it was set forth that the killing of one fly cut off more than 3,000,000,000 descendants. Or to state it otherwise, with a single swing of a folded newspaper, the process of infesting the neighborhood with five trillion flies was stopped. This gives an idea of what one fly means early in the year. Every one killed now is a greater gain towards sanitation than hundreds killed in June or thousands killed in August. If a competition were organized at this time, each fly reported dead would be worth more to the contestant than a thousand times as many six months from now.

The fact that 1,000,000 flies were killed last summer in the "Swat the Fly" campaign does not guarantee a flyless city this season. It helped of course, and the city is cleaner and healthier in consequence, and there will be fewer flies this spring. What is needed now is a follow-up fight against the survivors, and their progeny. The flyless city will come chiefly as a result of springtime work, and this will be a good year to start it. For the present the thing to do is to watch for the flies, kill them whenever they are seen, and at the first opportunity clean out the trash from cellars and yards, and above all to screen all stable pits and thus deprive the fly of its most effective breeding places.

Put in your house screens. Keep out the flies and thus protect your own home.

Goober Growers

Becoming Alarmed

The goober is threatened, a new caterpillar creation, recently perfected in nature's great insect-pest factory has begun activities which have already damaged the fifteen-million-dollar peanut crop, a fifth of its annual value at the least and threaten its extinction. And just at the time when peanut oil, made in Holland, for curiously enough we have not learned to make it here, was beginning to push the olive product and its cottonseed twin brother to the wall. The day seemed almost in sight to sanguine temperaments, when if the olive extract was not reduced in price to meet the competition, the manufacturers would be forced to placate an outraged public by making their so-called pint bottles look less like thermometers than they do, or course pint bottles in the oil trade is only a name, as one might say, Sorosis shoe, and not a measure of quantity. But the peanut product pint meant a pound, and the world was just learning to like it when

It seems as though it was ever thus, in these worrisome years, we never can come to love a tree or vegetable but that some voracious pest ideally equipped for its destruction learns to like it too, and robs us of the most of the crop. But perhaps this is just to test and develop our resourcefulness, and to call fourth some bug-breeding Burbank who shall cross a spider with a devil's darning needle and produce an indomitable insect champion to fight our battles for us.—Rochester Post-Express.

Old Sale Bill Is Extraordinary

Harry Vance, of Bloomington, has in his possession a copy of a sale bill issued back in 1850, which is decidedly different from the public sale bills of today, as human beings were offered as part of the "chattels." The sale bill, which was not unlike all of the sale announcements of that day reads:

Last Chance

We had to send in another order, owing to the fact that a large number of people sent in demands for use and $1.20 leather bound Webster's New Revised Dictionary, when we announced a few weeks ago that we would cease handling same when our supply was exhausted.

The demand largely exceeded our supply, but our shipment, just received has taken care of all orders on hand, and we have still a few dictionaries left, indexed and unindexed. When this supply is exhausted it will be impossible to get another Dictionary through us.

If you want an up-to-date leather-bound Dictionary, actually worth $2.50, get busy while you can get one indexed for $1.20 or one without index for 98c.

A WOMAN'S WISH

What Juliette Metzger Would Like to Have.

If a woman could have one wish granted, for the benefit of other women, it would be that all sickly, run-down women might be well and strong again.

Miss Juliette Metzger of New York says: "I was in bad health for about a year, on account of my blood being poor and thin. A short time ago I began to take Vinol and it strengthened and built me up right from the start. I now feel strong and well again and wish that every weak run-down woman knew what Vinol will do for her."

Poor blood—that's the whole trouble with millions of pale, weak, run-down people, and our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, Vinol, is just what they need to make their blood as pure as a healthy baby's.

We guarantee that Vinol will build you up and make you strong. If it does not we pay back your money. Now is the time to make your blood right. So get your Vinol today. Blackmer & Tanguary, Druggists, Washington C. H. O.

MOST HYBRID ENGLISH WORD

The most hybrid word in the English language, according to Prof. A. F. Chamberlain of Clarke university, writing in the Popular Science Monthly, is "macadamizing." Prof. Clarke points out that this word is derived from five languages: Latin, Gaelic, Hebrew, Greek and English. He resolves it into its factors as follows:

1. re, a Latin prefix, signifying a repetition or doing over again;
2. mac, a Gaelic word for son, in common use as a prefix for genealogical purposes;
3. Adam, the representative in many European languages of the Hebrew name of the first man, according to the Mosiac account of the creation as given in the book of Genesis;
4. iz (or ize), the modern English representative, through the French, of the Greek verbal terminal izen;
5. ing, the English suffix of the participle present, verbal noun, etc.

The root of this word "macadam," illustrates in another way the vitality of our English speech and its ability to draw new words into its vocabulary whenever the need arises. The term "macadam" is really the family name of the man, John Macadam, who in 1819 devised the now common method of paving roads with small broken stones, etc. "Mac" and "adam" had already combined to produce Macadam, meaning "son of Adam," which the English language then took up and further molded to suit its genius. There are many such hybrids, but this is probably the worst.

SHOT STARTS SNOWSLIDE

Caught in a snowslide that was precipitated by the concussion following the discharge of his rifle, David Davis, thirty-two years old, formerly a Denver man, was carried 300 feet to his death down a mountain side near the quarries of the Colorado Yule Marble company, at Marble, Colo. Davis, who was employed as time-keeper by the marble company, was out shooting. As he was returning to camp soon before dusk, following a trail at the base of one of the Elk mountain peaks, he caught sight of game and took a shot. The concussion started the slide. Davis was in the immediate path of the avalanche of snow and rock. Realizing his predicament, he ran to get beyond the danger zone. His effort was futile. The slide was upon him in less than a minute after it started. He was entombed by the swirling mass and carried down the rocky mountainside to his death.

Out of the goodness of his heart Manager Bresnahan opened the gates of his training camp to two would-be come-backs this spring and there is a prospect that the bread cast upon the waters may be returned to him, for both Bob Ewing and Harry Steinfeldt are said to be giving indications of real worth. Bresnahan can use a good, steady pitcher like Ewing and Steinfeldt's presence was calculated to have a good effect on the holdout Mowrey if nothing else. Steinfeldt, however, believes he can be more than a catfish. He was ill last season after his release by Chicago, but a rest during the winter has made him well again, and he is eager to stay in the game. He may at least win a utility berth with the Cardinals. Ewing says there was nothing really wrong with him in his last engagement with Philadelphia, except that Dooin would not give him a chance to work, and, of course, he also wants to stay and prove it.

THE SPRINGFIELD ATHLETICS

This strong amateur nine from Springfield will cross bats with our local boys, the Hagerty Baseball club, at the Millwood park Sunday afternoon.

The Springfield athletics are conceded to be the strongest amateur club in the city of Springfield, have twice in succession—1910 and 1911—won the championship in the city league and are now the holders, by undisputed title, of the fine silver cup which goes with that honor as a trophy of merit.

The high class base ball which the local bunch put up at the Millwood park last year for the fans of Washington, promises to be duplicated or surpassed this season.

The line-up with S. Hagerty, 2b; Merz, c; Gerhardt, 1b and p; Pohlmeier, ss; Early, 3b; Taylor, lf; Teyens, cf; Ross, rf, with Kimball, Ross, Gerhardt and White to do the flinging, present a bunch of lively ball tossers who know the game from A to Z, from which it will be a difficult task for visitors to nip off a game.

The boys are each and every one of them intensely interested in the game and in the success of the club and are on edge for the season which opens with Sunday's clash.

As proof of their confidence in their ability to play the great game as it should be played the team has taken on one of the strongest aggregations of amateurs in the state for the initial contest.

Millwood park has been vastly improved with seats for the spectators and a fence which encloses the grounds. The diamond has been rolled and the outfield improved very measurably.

Conditions at the park being so much better this year than they were last year it is probable that that fact and the added experience of the players, the injections of new men at one or two points will afford the local fans an even better article of base ball than that upon which they feasted at Millwood park last season.

MEAT MAY BE COOKED BY EITHER DRY OR MOIST HEAT

Steak When Properly Done Should Be Well Browned On the Outside and Juicy and Pink Inside —Methods Described.

(By Edna Noble White, College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.)

Oven roasting is one method of cooking meat by application of dry heat.

The methods of cooking meat by application of dry heat are broiling, pan broiling, oven roasting in an uncovered pan or roasting before an open fire. The steak may be broiled under gas or over glowing coals, and if properly done will be well browned on the outside and juicy and pink on the inside. A steak that is gray all through will not be juicy, because the proteins dissolved in the juices have all been hardened by the heat.

The steak should be first seared on either side, to retain the juice, then removed farther from the flame so that the interior will not be overcooked. Frequently it is more convenient to broil in a frying pan or skillet. In this case the pan should be smoking hot and may be rubbed lightly with a bit of fat to prevent sticking. As soon as the meat is browned on either side, the heat should be reduced, as in ordinary broiling. If fat collects in the pan it should be poured off, otherwise the meat will be sautéed rather than broiled and will lose in flavor.

A number of experiments in the roasting of meat were carried on at the University of Illinois, and it was found that for a tender cut the closed pan did not give as satisfactory results, as far as flavor and appearance were concerned, and the losses were greater than where an open pan was used. The same principle of high heat at first for searing and then a lower heat to finish the cooking applies here, also. If the fat side is placed uppermost in the pan basting will not be found necessary. If the roast is lacking in fat, bind a piece of suet on the uppermost side.

The methods of cooking by the application of moist heat are stewing, braising, steaming, etc. By braising the meat first a good flavor is produced and probably more of the juices are retained. In stewing the meat is cut in smaller pieces and is served with the broth or gravy so that none of the flavor and nutritive material will be lost. In braising the meat is placed in a covered pan in the oven and steamed in its own juice. A pot roast is similar, except that it is cooked in a kettle on top of the stove. A small amount of water is usually added in both cases, and the meat may be floured and browned in smoking fat before the water is added. The temperature after the braising process is finished must be low. This method may be used with steaks, also, browning thoroughly, then adding a small amount of water, covering closely and cooking for a long time over a slow fire.

Unless the broth is served with the meat, quite a little of the nutritive and flavoring material may be lost, since the extractives, mineral matter and some of the proteid will dissolve in the water. The scum which covers the surface of broth is mostly made up of the dissolved proteid which has been hardened by heat, as are also the settlings. In a clear broth this scum and any solid particles are usually carefully removed before serving, so that there is little left in the broth but some mineral salts and the extractives. The strong meaty flavor derives many people who imagine because of it that the broth is nourishing. These extractives are allied to the stimulating substance found in tea and coffee, and, therefore, the broth has some value as a stimulant, often whetting the appetite, but in cases of severe illness should not be given unless ordered by a physician.

It is commonly thought that the most expensive cuts of meat have the best flavor, but it is frequently true that the extractives are better developed in the muscles which have been used more and are, in consequence, tougher. The use of dry heat which is possible only with the tenderer cuts does tend to develop, and because of the ease of mastication the flavor is more easily detected in the tender cuts. While the extractives are not nutritious, their value as digestive stimulants must not be underrated.

SIMPLE RULES FOR MEASURING STANDING TIMBER

In case a part of all the ripe timber on a woodlot is to be cut and the land cleared and placed under cultivation, it may be desirable to make an estimate of the amount of timber on the land. The following is a simple and accurate rule.

Measure the diameter at breast height of all the merchantable trees. Use an ordinary tape to get the circumference and then divide by 3, or a regular diameter tape or calipers can be used. Square the diameter, multiply the results by two and divide by ten. The result will be the number of cubic feet of wood in the tree. Multiply the cubic feet content by 8 and you will have the board feet content. The reason for using 8 rather than 12 is that four inches have to be deducted for slabs and kerf, or, in other words, waste.

Another method that gives good results and is perhaps somewhat more conservative is this:

Find the diameter at breast height of all merchantable trees and square the diameter as before. Then multiply by 3 and divide the result by 2. The result is the number of board feet in the trees. These rules are called the rules of thumb and they are based upon many measurements and long-time experiments. If they are used on from 500 to 1,000 trees they are self-compensating, that is, where you get too much in one tree you will not get enough in another, so the loss in one will balance the gain in the other.

An example illustrating the use of the rule: A tree is 25 inches in diameter. The square of this is 625, which multiplied by 2 gives 1,250, and divided by 10 gives 125 cubic feet. This multiplied by 8 gives 1,000 board feet.

With the other rule, taking 625, the square of the diameter, and multiplying by 3, we get 1,875, and dividing this by 2 we have the result 937.5 board feet. The second rule is more conservative than the first.

It is well to remember that it costs the logger or the lumberman about half the amount he gets for his finished mill product to get it logged and run through the mill. So if he gets for his white oak, say 75 cents per thousand, he pays at least 35 cents for the cutting, logging and milling.

College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

The strong meaty flavor because of it that the broth is nourishing. These extractives are allied to the stimulating substance found in tea and coffee, and, therefore, the broth has some value as a stimulant, often whetting the appetite, but in cases of severe illness should not be given unless ordered by a physician.

It is commonly thought that the most expensive cuts of meat have the best flavor, but it is frequently true that the extractives are better developed in the muscles which have been used more and are in consequence tougher. The use of dry heat which is possible only with the tenderer cuts, does tend to develop, and because of the ease of mastication the flavor is more easily detected in the tender cuts. While the extractives are not nutritious, their value as digestive stimulants must not be underrated.

SIMPLE RULES FOR MEASURING STANDING TIMBER

In case a part of all the ripe timber on a woodlot is to be cut and the land cleared and placed under cultivation, it may be desirable to make an estimate of the amount of timber on the land. The following is a simple and accurate rule.

Measure the diameter at breast height of all the merchantable trees. Use an ordinary tape to get the circumference and then divide by 3, or a regular diameter tape or calipers can be used. Square the diameter, multiply the results by two and divide by ten. The result will be the number of cubic feet of wood in the tree. Multiply the cubic feet content by 8 and you will have the board feet content. The reason for using 8 rather than 12 is that four inches have to be deducted for slabs and kerf, or, in other words, waste.

Another method that gives good results and is perhaps somewhat more conservative is this:

Find the diameter at breast height of all merchantable trees and square the diameter as before. Then multiply by 3 and divide the result by 2. The result is the number of board feet in the trees. These rules are called the rules of thumb and they are based upon many measurements and long-time experiments. If they are used on from 500 to 1,000 trees they are self-compensating, that is, where you get too much in one tree you will not get enough in another, so the loss in one will balance the gain in the other.

An example illustrating the use of the rule: A tree is 25 inches in diameter. The square of this is 625, which multiplied by 2 gives 1,250, and divided by 10 gives 125 cubic feet. This multiplied by 8 gives 1,000 board feet.

With the other rule, taking 625, the square of the diameter, and multiplying by 3, we get 1,875, and dividing this by 2 we have the result 937.5 board feet. The second rule is more conservative than the first.

It is well to remember that it costs the logger or the lumberman about half the amount he gets for his finished mill product to get it logged and run through the mill. So if he gets for his white oak, say 75 cents per thousand, he pays at least 35 cents for the cutting, logging and milling.

women and children in the all too few boats. Such good news as there is places among the living Henry S. Harper of the publishing firm of Harper & Company and Mrs. Harper, Dr. and Mrs. Frauenthal and Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Frauenthal. Mrs. John Jacob Astor with her maid is on the Carpathia which is hurrying with survivors to this port and which should arrive here tomorrow night. Among the others rescued are J. Bruce Ismay, the managing director of the White Star line, Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia, Sir Gordon and Lady Cosmo Duff, Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, Mrs. Charles M. Hays, whose husband was president of the Grand Trunk railroad; Mrs. Henry B. Harris and Mrs. Washington Dodge of San Francisco. The list of survivors includes women and children from the first cabin, second cabin and steerage. No distinctions were made when the rule of the sea sent women and children to the boats and left the men to their fate.

The first message from the Olympic that filtered through stormy air said that there were 868 survivors on the Carpathia, which was modified later to "about 800," but whether one message allowed for the boat crews and the other did not was not made clear.

Information Lacking

There is no exact information as to how many souls were on the Titanic when she hurried herself against the giant iceberg. The first estimate here was 2,180, the London office estimate 2,385 and an estimate here was 2,210, made up of 325 first-cabin, 285 second-cabin, 710 steerage and 890 crew. With the lowest total and the highest list of saved there would be 1,500 lost, and with the highest of both, 1,500. But no comparison can lessen the dreadful story of broken families of partings sadder than the imagination can grasp, of weak and suffering women wrenched cruelly from dear ones whose life was a matter of hours. Perhaps it was easier to die than to live in that short space of time while the Titanic staggered in her shroud of fog.

Her veteran captain knew the peril that lay ahead of him along the westerly track of steamships. Other navigators had found and avoided those pallid shapes in a smother of fog that remain the uncomprehending enemies of ships. Only a few hours before the Titanic shattered her tremendous bulk the Hamburg-American liner Amerika witnessed to the Titanic that there were two large icebergs a little east and south of the place where the White Star colossus was finally in collision. That was on Sunday, and shortly after receiving the news the Titanic herself relayed it to a land station from which the hydrographic office heard of it. And then there seems little reason to doubt the Titanic plunged onward and hurried herself against those very bergs.

A shadowy hint of what followed then has come from the area of waters that are ruled by fog and frost. The wireless, modern miracle as it is, could not achieve the impossible and snatch toward the Titanic in time to save her people the grey-honus that were hundreds of miles away. It has not recounted clearly and faithfully the episodes of the terrible four hours while the great ship struck from happiness and peace to horror and despair, lay stricken against the groaning bergs.

The story of the wireless has maddening snatches, bulletins which skimmed the top of surmise, a few figures, some conjectures, and finally an ugly picture of a green sea strewn with wreckage and imperiled by grinding icebergs. But between the flashes of the marconigrams and with the stories of the captains who came too late, something of the tragedy of the Titanic can be written.

Received Terrible Jolt

The Titanic must have recoiled from her destroyer a shattered and riven ship. So tremendous an impact would have crumpled up the very bed plates, shaken the mighty engines from their foundation, opened up watertight compartments, buckled plates from end to end and started rivets everywhere. It is likely that water rushed into her hull from all sides, for her keel must have been injured by the terrific drive on a mass as hard as rock. And that jar must have quenched the ships lights by injuring her electrical apparatus. It is known that the wireless worked weakly when Phillips, the operator, set about his desperate task of reaching out for help while the women and children in the boats rocked off somewhere in the dark and the men waited with sinking hearts. And the wireless ceased muttering in less than two hours. A flutter and a letter or two and it was silent.

No tragedy of the sea has supplied a picture more intense, more staggering to the imagination.

The blasting shriek of the sirens had not alarmed the great company of the Titanic, because such steam calls are an incident of travel in seas where fog rolls heavy. The hour—10:40 p. m. was just too late for the friendly contact of salons and smoking rooms. It was Sunday night and probably the ship's concert had ended, but there were many hundreds moving up and down along the gay lights, and many no doubt on deck with their eyes strained toward the mysterious west, where home lay. And in one jarring, breath-sweeping moment all of these, asleep or awake, were at the mercy of chance.

Mrs. Edward Cramer, No. Jackson, Ohio, says that Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been their faithful friend for many years. "We rely upon it for quick relief from coughs and colds, and it never fails. It has saved one son's life, I am sure. He had a dreadful case of asthma, and we thought he would surely die of strangulation. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound completely and absolutely cured him. Blackmer and Tanquary."

On the Wings Of the Morning

False reports of the death of eminent personages are common, but that of the death of Pope Pius X, which circulated throughout the civilized world yesterday forenoon, was exceptional in having official origin in the Papal Nunciature of Madrid. This gave it credibility among prelates and at seats of government, and in newspaper offices from one end of the earth to the other; and while the pope was giving his usual audiences for the day, the capitals of Europe were seeking further information and the church bells were tolling in parts of America. It took three hours to spread, with like swiftness a denial from the Vatican, and it would have taken hardly as many minutes had not the avenues of information from across the Tiber been clogged for the moment. Little more than fifty years ago the false report could have started from Madrid or Rome and been days in circulating over Europe and weeks in reaching America, and other days and weeks would have followed before the truth overtook it. Nothing is so impressive for man's achievement in mastering the forces of nature as this bringing of all parts of the world into instantaneous communication. The Psalmist could move in spirit on the wings of the morning, and dwell imaginatively in the uttermost parts of the sea. It has remained for humanity in our time to come into a literal realization of such flights of the mind. —New York World

Nine Chickens Establish Record

Mrs. Harrison Wilcox, of Wilton, Gallia county, is possessor of a pen of Buff Orpington chickens which she considers the greatest winter layers in Ohio, and her friends issue a challenge for a record which is better.

Mrs. Wilcox some time ago purchased fifteen eggs from an Indiana fancier, paying $5 for the setting, and from these fifteen eggs fourteen chicks were hatched May 1, 1911. Thirteen of them lived, and of the thirteen nine were pullets.

They commenced to lay November 11, when six months and eleven days old, and to April 1, 1912, or in four months and twenty days Mrs. Wilcox had gathered 700 eggs, which she sold at the fancy price of $23.33. The record is thought to be particularly good inasmuch as Gallia county had the coldest winter in forty-one years. The chickens are all large ones weighing from six to twelve pounds.

You will miss it if you're not at I. O. O. F. Hall Wednesday evening.

Wilmington To Have New Church

Wilmington is to have another handsome new church, perhaps not this year, but some time in the near future, for at a congregational meeting of the First Baptist Church last Wednesday, after a full and long discussion, a motion to construct a new house of worship, on the lot where now stands the present structure prevailed. For the past several months a committee has been interviewing the membership and receiving pledges of donations and it made its report Wednesday. So favorably had the suggestion been received and so liberal had been the pledges of money, that the membership felt justified in deciding to build, and after carrying such motion a new committee was appointed to continue the soliciting and also to prepare plans and specifications. This committee consists of Howard McCune, Chairman, H. E. Collett, P. D. Leaming, Lafayette Record, W. E. Smith and Mrs. Sarah Miller. The Baptists have a splendid lot, and while their church is good and comfortable, still it is one of the oldest in town, too small for present needs and in many ways out of date, and the membership is looking forward with pleasure to a more modern and commodious house of worship, while the community generally will be glad that such an improvement has been decided upon. —Wilmington Journal

Wants Three Cent Coin

Representative Burkley has introduced a bill in congress providing for the coinage of three-cent pieces with a hole in the middle. The new coin is said to be needed in Cleveland, where the street car companies charge a three cent fare.

The new piece would be made of copper and nickel, would be slightly larger than a cent and be legal tender up to 30 cents.

Mrs. Hilda Rowan, 43 No. Hickory St., Chillicothe, Ohio, says, "The benefits I received through the use of Foley Kidney Pills were remarkable. They cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble and rheumatism and regulated the action of the kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills deserve all the praise one can give them. Blackmer & Tanquary."
